About Me

Pod Mom

I am the mother of three Jo who is 9, M who is 8, and No who is 6. They never cease to amaze me. They are constantly teaching me new lessons everyday that are shaping me into the woman God wants me to be. I love being their mom and staying home with them. I have been married for 12 year to my husband. He is my great encourager and strength. I love hanging out with my girl friends, sharing information and networking. I love to travel and meet people of other cultures.

The Chrysalis and the Caterpillar

Our Chrysalis has a friend. We have watched him turn white, black, brown and now green. We can not believe how quickly he is changing and how big he has gotten. We have put a net over the tree now and check on them 5 or 6 times a day.

Up date on cool Bug

I guess it is time to do a lesson on the life cycle of a Butterfly. Good thing we only have two more half days of school and then a two week Holiday Before the new academic year begins so we can keep an eye on it.

Little Bug

Every day inches it way closer and closer to summer. Gone are the cool nights and days of winter. Some parts of India have already declared it summer. It was 95 degrees here today The kids played in the yard with squirt guns and ended up with the hose. They sprayed the dog and he loved it. Sat down and let the kids spray and rub him. When they were done and changed M and No asked if they could water the garden. I am not sure that making a big puddle in the dirt counts as watering the garden but they had a blast. I feel so blessed to have a yard for them to play in.

Tomatoes

M and the Dog had lots of fun today picking the tomatoes. M pick 31 and the Dog picked 10 (5 red and 5 green). I guess it filled him up because he did not eat anything for dinner tonight.

Cool Bug

We love our yard. For 7 years we never had a yard or grass to play in. Now we are having so much fun. This bug was the great find of the day.

Barbie takes home the trophy

It was a week before the fancy dress competition. This was amazing since most of the time the Circular goes out the night before. I read the note 2nd graders come as a product and give a speech to sell the product. The problem is M goes blank when she get up to speak so what product could she sell. She already went as the shampoo girl. My mind was blank. She also could not come up with an idea. Once again the night before I was searching the internet for ideas. Barbie in a box kept popping up. Ok... that is a product M knows about and can sell and easy for me to make. I wrapped a box with paper, stuck a logo on it and Barbie's name done. Thanks to the new Valentines 51% off dress we were finished. This morning M pulls out the trophy and certificate beaming. I said "I guess you said something right." (since she was not able to tell me anything she had said for the competition that day after school). She said "Mom I said everything right and I got first place." Way to go M. Big hugs! Oh yes and thanks Barbie for your inspiration.

51 %

Today was a great day I went to shopping and to lunch with a girl friend. That right there should have been enough but to top it off i actually found a beautiful dress for M at 51% off. Just so you know I am the person that walks in to the store where everything is on sale and finds the one item that is not on sale. 51% was the max off and I found it.

Three Peas and a Dog

We think sometimes that poverty is only being hungry, naked and homeless. The poverty of being unwanted, unloved and uncared for is the greatest poverty. We must start in our own homes to remedy this kind of poverty. Mother Teresa
